

Homeland Security and Defense Education Consortium

Interagency Coordination Between Federal, State, and Local Agencies
August 15-16, 2007

Hosted at Utah Valley State College, Orem, UT
<http://ieshs.uvsc.edu/>

The Institute of Emergency Services & Homeland Security and the Utah Valley State College will be holding a two day Western Regional Homeland Security Conference. The event is cosponsored by NORAD-NORTHCOM, the Homeland Security & Defense Education Consortium (HSDEC), the IES&HS, and Dugway Proving Ground.

Conference attendance is free. Costs, including breaks, lunches and a dinner are being provided by HSDEC.

The conference is designed to bring together educators with public health personnel, police, fire, EMS, emergency management and others with a role in dealing with natural and man-made disasters or terrorist events.

Conference events will include sessions on interagency operations and planning, infrastructure protection, chem/bio/agroterrorism threat potential as well as local/federal/state perspectives on homeland security response.

Information about our amazing keynote speaker Col. Bill Hiller can be found at <http://www.billhillartraining.com/about.htm>

Registration and information can be found online: <http://ieshs.uvsc.edu/ieshs-home/hsdec.html>

Contact: Chris Lindquist, Program Manager lindquch@uvsc.edu, 888-548-7816

